Welcome!

At Procurement Services, our goal is to partner with you to make it easy, convenient, and cost effective to purchase the products and services you need to support the University of Michigan’s missions of education, research, and patient care. Beyond that, we’re here to help reduce legal and financial risks for you and ensure that U-M’s purchasing dollars are spent in an ethical manner.

The breadth and depth of U-M’s purchasing efforts are as diverse as the institution itself and this document, Buying at U-M—A Quick-Start Guide, was developed to help you, regardless of the size, scope, and type of your purchasing needs. It includes a variety of helpful resources, ranging from descriptions of buying methods and contact information to policies and training modules—all presented in a short, easy-to-understand format.

We welcome your questions and look forward to hearing from you, both about this guide as well as any other ideas you may have to make the purchasing experience even better for the U-M community. On behalf of our teams, thank you for your ongoing support of Procurement Services.

Procurement Services buying process

Purchasing is the act of obtaining or buying goods and services. The process ranges from determining needs to receiving goods and maintaining records.

Procurement involves sourcing products, negotiating favorable prices, and selecting goods and services important to you and your department.

The following six steps detail the buying process recommended by Procurement Services to make your purchasing more cost effective and efficient.

1. CONSIDER NEEDS
   Clarify your needs for the purchase by considering the basic characteristics and standards of the item or service. Note: If your purchase is estimated to be $10,000 or greater, please contact Procurement Services for assistance.

2. DETERMINE SUPPLIERS
   Locate potential suppliers, gather product information, and solicit bids starting with internal service providers and the Procurement Services search tool.

3. EVALUATE OFFERS
   Evaluate your offers, considering total cost, including price, shipping cost, and any relevant fees.

4. PLACE ORDER
   After selecting a suitable offer, place your order using M-marketsite, QTO, or an M-Pathways ePro requisition. The system will then automatically create a purchase order (PO).

5. RECEIVE GOODS
   Inspect your shipment immediately to ensure the order is correct, complete, and undamaged. Contact your supplier promptly with any issues.

6. MAINTAIN RECORDS
   Maintain clear and concise records for all of your department’s transactions. All procurement transactions are audited regularly. Employees processing orders or requesting goods or services should be familiar with the list of procurement user responsibilities.

Training

All employees who purchase goods and services on behalf of U-M must complete the following eLearning courses in My LINC to obtain access to the transaction types in M-Pathways.

- PRE101 Fundamentals of Procurement—This course is the prerequisite to all other Procurement eLearning courses.
- PRE103 Non-PO Voucher—Primarily used as a method of payment for reimbursements. It is not a method for ordering goods and services. Users must complete the eLearning course PRE103 to obtain access for creating non-PO voucher transactions.

The M-Pathways eProcurement requisition (ePro req) is used to order goods and services in M-Pathways through the purchase order process. There are three types of ePro requisitions and a corresponding eLearning course for each.

- PRE104 Special Request ePro req—Used for one-time purchases from suppliers that do not have contracts with U-M and to create a “release” (order) against an M-Pathways contract.
- PRE105 M-marketsite ePro req—Used with U-M’s online catalog ordering system to place orders from suppliers that have negotiated pricing with the university.
- PRE106 PeoplePay ePro req—Used to pay an individual for non-appointment-related services.
